

Let Us Hear the Voices of the Survivors

An immeasurable number of people suffered as a result of the earthquake which hit Japan's Tohoku area on May 11. Much rebuilding has already begun in the area through job creations and other kinds of support; however, many, like orphans, pregnant women, single mothers and folks from foreign countries are still not getting the help or the funding that they need.

Isshow Con, a freelance writer, in an effort to create a way to help fund them, decided to create a worldwide awareness lecture program. The survivors themselves, as well as volunteers and NPO staff who worked on the front lines, speak about their experiences and what the people in the Tohoku need, while also allowing them to educate the rest of the world what they know about disaster prevention.

What the survivors have learned from their sufferings and hardships is invaluable. We are by no means trying to market sympathy. Instead, we want everyone to find value from the survivors' life experiences.

This venture is managed by an NPO and freelance journalists in the stricken area, who will market the lectures to event promoters like schools, foundations and the private sector. Survivor comments and notes are professionally edited to ensure integrity.

Our mission is to ensure that the news of the earthquake does not fade away and it is also to make people aware of the grave reality of what happened in the stricken area. We also hope to make this an opportunity to gain back the slowly fading worldwide support.

This opportunity will allow many to revisit the importance of disaster prevention, while business entities can determine what they can do to support the stricken area.

It will also allow the demands of those who suffered from the earthquake to be met by those supporters who can supply the assistance.

Please invite us to your town, so that you can hear the voices of the survivors.

Thank you

Isshow Con
